Crew And Ship Recovered

Assault Troops Now Evacuated

WASHINGTON (AP) — All Marines who took part in the helicopter assault on a tiny Cambodian island to recover a U.S. merchant ship and its crew of 40 have been evacuated to a Navy carrier in the Gulf of Thailand, the Pentagon said today.

Despite heavy small-arms fire from Khmer Rouge troops and the fall of darkness, the last helicopter carrying troops left the island at 9:10 a.m. EDT, a spokesman said.

Pentagon spokesman Joseph Laitin said two U.S. destroyers continue to cruise close to the shore of Koh Tang to insure that no Marines or helicopter crewmen were left ashore.

He said that word was expected by mid-day.

Marines had been delayed by enemy fire which drove away first helicopter attempts to pick up the troops who landed on the island 30 miles off the Cambodian coast more than 14 hours before.

The Pentagon spokesman said he believed U.S. fighter planes and Navy destroyers had ceased their attacks, designed to suppress the enemy fire.

Meanwhile, the unarmed container ship Mayaguez steamed toward Singapore under operation by its own crew.

Pentagon officials said earlier the ship was bound for its original destination, the port of Sattahip in Thailand. But officials said they were informed later by the ship's owners, the Sea-Land Corp., that it would head for Singapore.

Carroll Submits Tax Exemption For Local Governments

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll submitted today an emergency regulation exempting all units of local governments from paying the state sales and use tax.

The regulation submitted to the legislature's administrative review subcommittee would apply to all purchase by such units, including utility service.

Carroll previously submitted a similar regulation applying to purchases by local governments exceeding $500.

Two subcommittee members objected to that limitation and the regulation was returned to the Department of Revenue.

The two members indicated they would support the regulation if it had no such limits.

Carroll said the primary reason for issuing the regulation again was to give local governments financial assistance which he said they badly need because of the soaring costs of utilities.

Carroll also said he was concerned about the competitive advantage which out-of-state stores previously had over Kentucky merchants in sales to local governments.

Ushers for the occasion will be juniors Robin Bayless, Cathy Dingman, Debbie Lee, Cindy Rednour, Willie Nell Reed, Marsha Robertson, Michele Timmerman and Sue Windrum.

Graduation will be held in Ty Holland Stadium on Thursday evening, May 29, at 8 o'clock. The Murray High Band will play for the processional and recessional.

Ginger Gilliam, third honor student, will give the invocation.

Renee Taylor will sing "I May Never Pass This Way Again."

Salutatorian Tim Philpot will greet the parents and guests.

Superintendent Fred Schultz will speak on the subject, "Tigers, Take the Right Road."

The valedictory will be given by Martha McKinney.

Chairman Don Henry of the Murray City Board of Education will present the diplomas.

The benediction will be given by Jean Forsee, fourth honor student.

Ushers for this occasion will be juniors Joe Graves, Gary Hainsworth, Todd Harrison, Robbie Hibbard, Mark Homra, Gary Moore, Dewey Seigler and Billy Smith.

Local School Superintendents Issue Statement On Recruiting Of Students

A joint statement was issued this morning by Murray Independent School Superintendent Fred Schultz and Calloway County School Superintendent William Miller concerning the recruitment drive being conducted for students for the Murray State University Laboratory School.

The statement is as follows:

"The Calloway County Board of Education and the Murray Board of Education have expressed concern over the suggested recruitment of elementary students for the University School, grades 1-6. Both school districts are in the planning phase for the 1975-76 school year and must determine as accurately as possible next year's enrollment in order to insure the students of a proper pupil-teacher ratio and supplies and equipment.

"The Murray Board of Education and the Calloway County Board of Education have enjoyed a free exchange of students for Foundation Program purposes through the years and have been able to predict enrollments with reasonable accuracy.

The proposal by a community group to recruit students jeopardizes not only the planning and funding for the coming school year but may place in jeopardy bond and interest requirements in both systems.

"The state Foundation Program funds capital outlay requirements based on enrollment and the present buildings were built with bonds issued based on current enrollment figures.

"In as much as it is not possible for the local Boards of Education to receive state foundation funds for those students attending the University School, it is hoped that the two local school districts will not become involved in student recruitment with the university school. However, if the suggested recruitment practice should result in a significant loss of state funds to either of the Boards of Education, then appropriate action will be taken to curtail recruitment of students from the Calloway County and the Murray School Districts."

None Injured As Plane Lands Without Wheels

No injuries were reported this morning when an incoming plane at the Murray-Calloway County Airport landed without the landing gear down.

Johnny Parker, airport manager, said the landing occurred at around nine a. m. today.

The plane was occupied by the pilot, John Faulkenberry and Brynes Fairchild, of the Kentucky Department of Finance. Fairchild was coming to Murray in the state-owned plane to meet with Dr. Thomas Hogancamp, Murray State University vice-president for administration and finance, and other university officials and architects for a progress report on the livestock and exposition center now under construction by MSU.

An investigation was planned today by the Federal Aviation Administration into the incident. Faulkenberry would not say whether or not an equipment malfunction was to blame, but said simply that the "gear was not down when we landed."

Parker said this morning that the pilot "did a good job" of keeping the plane under control once it touched down on a "belly landing."

The plane, which left Frankfort at about eight a. m. today, is owned by the state department of transportation. Faulkenberry is a state-employed pilot.

Work was to begin this morning to get the plane back on its wheels. Damage was considered to be minimal, with the props and portions of the bottom of the plane damaged.

One Injured In Accident Wednesday

One person was injured in a car-pedestrian accident at Eighth and Main Streets at 6:47 p. m. Wednesday, according to Murray City Police, who investigated the incident.

Five-year old Richard Stout, 803 Olive, was treated and released at the Murray-Calloway Hospital for injuries suffered when he was struck by a car driven by Cynthia Ann Chrisman, 814 North 20th, according to police.

Officers said the Chrisman car was going west on Main when the pedestrian ran across Main Street from the south side to the north in the path of the automobile.

The accident report said the car skidded about 45 feet and struck the child just before stopping.

Hospital Beds Sport New Sheets

By Nanci Peterson

Sporting relatively new colored bed linen, the Murray-Calloway County Hospital maintains laundry costs much lower than a statewide average taken of 12 similar facilities, a mere $6.42 per 100 pounds of washing compared to the statewide average of $11.87. The national average is $12.20 per 100 pounds.

"Cotton shortages and high prices during the past few years influenced the change to blends in many textile areas, and directly influenced the switch from white to colored sheets at the hospital," said Loueva Mathis, the facility's executive housekeeper.

First adopting blue sheets so that the new blends could be sorted separately from the white all-cotton linens, the hospital's innovation was so favorably received that gold coverings were later purchased to match the new wing.

Averaging 41,000 pounds of washing a month, the laundry employs eight full-time workers on a five-day basis. "We used to work a seven-day week, but we just decided to take a day off and see what happened. Nothing happened, so we tried another day off," said Mrs. Mathis.

"The laundry employees are so efficient we don't have any trouble maintaining a complete supply of clean linens, even when we close for a day," she added.

"An average home washing machine is capable of handling about 10 pounds of clothing at a time, and would have to make 150 complete cycles to match the hospital laundry's 1,500 pound daily norm," said Mrs. Mathis.

Each floor of the hospital has a laundry shoot to the ground floor, where soiled linens are picked up and carted to the laundry. "If a newly laundered set of patient's linen is delivered to a room, but the patient in that room is discharged, the linen is dropped down the shoot. A room is completely fresh when a patient is assigned to it," added Mrs. Mathis.

Divided into different departments, the laundry is composed of the soiled laundry room, the wash room, the drying room, the folding, sorting and ironing room, and a small section for mending some materials.

Just washing and drying items is not always enough. Linens headed for surgery, obstetrics and the nursery must be completely sterilized, and delivered to the areas without being contaminated.

"If a room isn't clean enough for me to lie down in, then it's not clean enough for a patient. That's the attitude we all take, and it's magnificent the way all the employees work together for that goal," Mrs. Mathis said.

"We get a lot of spotless linen out to the floors, and it's a team effort, just as everything this hospital does is part of a united team effort," she added.

SORT, IRON AND FOLD — Employees of the Murray-Calloway County Hospital's laundry run pillow cases through the massive mechanical ironing equipment, capable of handling a sheet in under a minute, which then is completely wrinkle-free.

AMIDST NEW EQUIPMENT — Standing beside her two newest washers is Loueva Mathis, executive housekeeper of the Murray-Calloway County Hospital. She is in charge of the laundry, which turns out 41,000 pounds of washing each month.

Dear Abby

Lead-footed Ledbetter Constantly Late

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Thirty lashes with a nasty old chicken feather for saying that dogs will kill only when they are in pairs or packs. Where did you ever get that idea? It's not true. One dog alone will attack and kill chickens, other animals or even people.

I have owned two chicken-killing dogs at different times, and while the suggested cure of tying the dead chicken around the dog's neck and leaving it there until it rots is good, I have a more effective cure.

I catch the dog with the dead chicken in his mouth, and while holding the dog firmly, I take the chicken from his mouth and then proceed to beat the %$#! (expletives deleted) out of the dog with the dead chicken. This really works.

No, I am not cruel. I am just sick of losing chickens. BILL IN WELLSVILLE, N.Y.

DEAR BILL: Thirty lashes with a chicken feather isn't enough. Make it a dog leash. I got the idea that dogs will only kill in pairs or packs from three veterinarians. And have I got a bone to pick with them!

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the young girl whose boyfriend was always late that I had the same trouble with my boyfriend but married him anyway and couldn't be happier. We've been married for 18 years and have six wonderful children. (The last one was born in the parking lot of the hospital because my husband was late.)

I wouldn't trade my man for any other in the world. Being late is his only fault, but he's worth waiting for. NADINE LEDBETTER

DEAR NADINE: Congratulations—even though you weren't able to get the lead out of Ledbetter.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter, a young woman who had been living with her boyfriend for two years wanted to have a big church wedding. You replied in your column that it was in poor taste since they had been living together openly.

What difference does it make whether two people have been living together openly or secretly? A wedding is for the couple's benefit and not that of the guests. If the bride and groom want a big church wedding, who has the right to tell them not to have one just because others might think it's in poor taste?

MY VIEW

DEAR VIEW: A couple should indeed have the kind of wedding they want. But if they chose to live together openly for two years despite their parents' protests, why should they expect their parents to foot the bill for a lavish, 300-guest extravaganza?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Piano Students Of Mrs. Winter Are Presented In Recital At Club House

The piano students of Mrs. John C. Winter were presented in a "Musical Feast" on Sunday afternoon, May 11, at the Murray Woman's Club. The clubhouse was decorated with flags, flowers, posters and balloons.

"Festival America" included pieces with titles characteristic of American life and compositions by famous Americans such as MacDowell and Dello Joio. "La Fete" featured French composers Couperin and Debussy as well as music written about the New Orleans

Mardi Gras. The music at "La Fiesta" had a definite Latin beat, and included a Tango, a Tarantella, and one of the Argentinian Dances of Ginastera; while "Das Festspiel" gave prominence to the great German heritage of Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Haydn, and Bach.

A large group of parents, grandparents, and friends were present to hear this demonstration of the students' musical progress, and were entertained following the program with a reception.

Judge Sanders Speaker For CWU Program

Judge Steve Sanders pointed out that "many of the good people of Murray are not sorry that they were speed on the city streets but rather that they get caught," so went Judge Sanders opening barrage as he keynoted the panel discussion at the Church Women United Annual May Day Program held recently at the First Presbyterian Church.

Sanders along with Martin Mattingly and David Roos participated in the dialogue moderated by Chuck Moffett lifting up the theme "What Keeps Us from Opening Ourselves to Live Fully."

Mrs. Lillian Graves and Mrs. Ben Dyer were in charge of the program. Mrs. Edd Glover is the president of the church organization.

Sanders talked about the number of different kinds of offenders that he is called upon in his capacity as city judge to talk with. He discussed the issue of drugs, family conflicts, and racism. He challenged the group to root out the areas of obvious hypocrisy so that we may open our lives to live fully.

Some one hundred were in attendance. The fall meeting of Church Women United will be held at the First Baptist Church of Murray.

That "coffee-break" can be turned into a nutritious snack for the person who just won't eat a good breakfast. The two can supplement each other so that combined they provide an adequate breakfast. For example, foods not included at breakfast, like milk and a roll or toast, might become part of the "coffee-break."

Garrott's Galley

A Lesson In Self-Confidence Learned At The Science Fair

By M. C. Garrott

I received a sobering lesson in perseverance and self-confidence a couple of weeks ago from our nine-year-old, Jeffrey.

He had worked for several weeks on a biology project in his fourth grade classroom at University School, growing radish plants in several different kinds of water—oil water, rain water, tap water, water with detergent in it, etc. The project was to be exhibited at the Regional Science Fair at Murray State on April 26.

We were up early that day and at the Fieldhouse at the specified 7:45 a. m. time, and he set up his project in the assigned space. Throughout the morning, he stood faithfully by his exhibit, waiting to discuss it with the judges or anyone else who happened to come by.

The judges did come by and talked with him—one time. We didn't see them any more for the rest of the day.

At 2 p. m., although we had been asked to leave the exhibits until 5 p. m. so the public could view them, I persuaded him to put his things in the car so we could go home as quickly as possible. For I had to be back at 4 p. m. for the alumni scholarship presentations and the banquet that evening.

Frankly, I didn't think he had a ghost of a chance of winning anything since the judges had seen his exhibit only the one time. I had watched all day as they returned to others time and again trying to sift out the principal winners.

Then once I had the exhibit safely stored in the car, I moved to Phase 2 of my evacuation plan and tried to get him to skip the 3 p. m. awards ceremonies in Lovett Auditorium and go on home, re-emphasizing the point that the judges had viewed his exhibit only the one time.

Nothing doing. He wouldn't buy that.

"But, dad!" he exclaimed. "I might win something! Miss Rogers told us to be sure and be there because you never know who might win. And I might win something!"

Of course, we went to the awards ceremony, and, sure enough, his name was among the first group of winners called. It was the first time in history that a Garrott ever won any kind of an academic award and particularly significant because it was in science.

Moments later, he bounded proudly off that big stage with his first trophy—a bronze medal for third place in the individual competition in biology for elementary students. And I was the first one to whom he showed it.

The thought that I almost caused him to miss that first thrill of achievement because of MY special interests left me feeling about a foot high. How does the biblical adage go?

"Oh, ye of little faith..." Or something like that.

Speaking of exhibits...

When we were putting together our 20-foot-wide Murray State display in the Exposition Center at KEA last month, we happened to be right next to a booth labeled "Students Kentucky Education Association."

Putting it together was a pretty little sandy-haired girl with a contagious smile. You talk to your neighbors at an exposition like that just like you do at home, and it wasn't long before we were talking with her—Leroy Eldridge, Mancil Vinson, Gil Gilbert, and I.

She didn't even wait to be introduced to me. "You're Morris Garrott, aren't you?" she asked. "I'm afraid so," I replied, somewhat taken aback at the thought of a pretty young thing like that having the name of an old codger like me.

Isn't It The Truth

by Carl Riblet Jr.

We live in a society that often unnecessarily complicates things — definitions, for example. A scholar may define rain as "precipitation, water droplets condensed from atmospheric vapor and sufficiently massive to fall to the earth's surface." An idiot may tell you, if asked, that rain falls in drops. Which of the two got his idea across best?

Kansas City — Instead of passing a plate for collection of offerings Sunday, the Rev. David Finestead of the Lake Lotawana United Methodist Church put $1,000 on the plate and asked his congregation to take the money to use for the Lord. Members of the congregation left $291 and the 30-year old pastor said it will be offered again next week. The Rev. Mr. Finestead, who said the money was from his personal account, said he was following the Parable of the Talents, in which a rich man gives three servants money. Two invested the money and gave back more than they had taken. The third was afraid to risk it and buried it for safekeeping. When he gave back only the one talent he had been given, the master was displeased. The Rev. Mr. Finestead said he hopes to get back twice as much as he gave out, with the return to be placed in the church general fund. (Kansas City Star)

Two pilgrims in Jiddah on the way to Mecca were going to fly for the first time. One of them reassured the other, "We have nothing to worry about. Planes nowadays are safe. And besides, when our time has come Allah will know where to find us...even up in the air." "Even if that is so," replied the other, "what if we are in the plane and Allah comes to find the pilot?"

Congress' Debate Discouraging

Low Deficit Curb Vital

Copley News Service

With so much attention on the current scene of the Vietnam war, Americans may have overlooked an event of historic importance on the floor of the U.S. Congress. For the first time in history the Senate and the House are trying to decide in advance how much the federal government should spend, and then make a commitment to keep spending within that limit.

That may be no novelty to anyone else who has ever worked with a budget, but it is a distinct departure from tradition for Congress. Over the years it has accumulated a national debt of more than half a trillion dollars and helped give the United States of America a serious case of inflation by ignoring the relationship between how much the government spends and how much it can expect to collect in taxes.

Congress is now taking a preliminary run at a budget-control procedure that will become mandatory next year under legislation adopted in 1974. While the legislation aims at giving Congress a sense of fiscal responsibility, it is too soon to say whether this reform will really bring about a change. We can see already that if establishing a budget ceiling is going to have a restraining effect on federal spending, a lot depends on the architects who decide how high the ceiling is going to be.

Administration economists have concluded that for the sake of stimulating recovery from recession, the government can afford to incur a deficit of $58.5 billion next year without tipping the economy back toward renewed inflation. President Ford has declared that under no circumstances should the deficit exceed $60 billion.

The new Senate Budget Committee headed by Democrat Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine has concluded that the ceiling is too low, starting Senate debate on the issue by proposing that Congress program a deficit of $67.5 billion instead. In the House, a similar committee is proposing that the ceiling be jacked up even higher — to $73 billion. It has been left for a minority of conservative senators led by Republican Sen. James L. Buckley of New York to suggest that even Mr. Ford's ceiling is too high. They propose a relatively modest deficit of $34.7 billion.

It is certainly a step in the right direction for Congress to be worrying about the size of the deficit at all, but it is obvious already that setting up budget-control machinery could be a useless gesture if there is not a visible and defined budget control philosophy behind it. The concept that there is virtue in a balanced budget has been rejected both by the Administration and by Congress. The Keynesian idea that a deficit is not inflationary if it is kept within a calculated limit is embraced by the administration, but it does not seem to impress the congressional budget committees.

The debate over the budget ceiling promises to be a spirited one as House and Senate spenders try to reconcile their laundry lists of programs that "must" be squeezed in. In the end, however, it may still remain for the President — with his power of veto and impoundment — to inject the discipline of a budget philosophy into federal spending.

Breaking Ground.....

.....Commentary On Issues And Events

Written By Gary Huddleston
Ky. Farm Bureau Federation

By Gary Huddleston

"Meet Meat" might be a good title for this educational quiz supplied recently by the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Designed for students or adults, the questions deal with some common misconceptions about meat producers, meat supplies and the many, seemingly unrelated factors which affect meat prices.

Even farmers who have worked with cattle, hogs or sheep all their lives might find they don't know all the answers. See how you do.

1. From the time a cattleman decides to increase his herd by holding back a female calf for breeding, how long will it be before the extra beef is on the retail meat counter?

- a. about six months
- b. about a year
- c. about 2 years
- d. about 4 years

2. Rank the following cuts of meat (1, 2, 3, 4, 5) according to which you think contain the highest quality protein; or check f if you think the protein quality is the same in all cuts.

- a. Sirloin steak
- b. Hamburger
- c. Lamb Chops
- d. Pot-roast
- e. Smoked ham
- f. All the same

3. If a local supermarket were suddenly run as a non-profit organization, how much do you think you would save on a $50 grocery bill?

- a. About $20
- b. About $10
- c. About $5
- d. Less than $1

4. How many farmers and ranchers do you think provide the nation's beef supply?

- a. Less than 20,000
- b. About 50,000
- c. About 200,000
- d. Over 1 million

5. What percentage of the nation's beef supply do you think is supplied by farms and ranches with herds of less than 500?

- a. Less than 25 per cent
- b. About 40 per cent
- c. About 50 per cent
- d. More than 80 per cent

6. How many hog farms do you think are found in the United States?

- a. Less than 100,000
- b. About 200,000
- c. About 400,000
- d. More than 700,000

7. How many lamb producers do you think there are in the United States?

- a. Less than 10,000
- b. About 50,000
- c. About 100,000
- d. Over 150,000

8. How much of a 1,000-pound steer do you think ends up on the retail meat counter?

- a. About 340 pounds
- b. About 430 pounds
- c. About 620 pounds

- d. About 810 pounds
9. About how much of a 210-pound hog do you think becomes saleable pork cuts?
- a. About 90 pounds
- b. About 100 pounds
- c. About 120 pounds
- d. About 160 pounds

The correct answers are:

1. d, about 4 years (2½ before the heifer bears a calf, 1½ to bring the new calf to slaughter weight);
2. f, all the same;
3. d, (Supermarket profit margins usually range between .5 and 1.5 per cent);
4. d, over 1 million;
5. d, more than 80 per cent;
6. d, more than 700,000;
7. d, over 150,000;
8. b, about 430 pounds;
9. c, about 120 pounds.

If your answers were correct for six of the nine questions, you must be considered well-versed in the complex field of "meatonomics."

And even if you were right for three of nine, you're probably no worse than average.

One additional question in the quiz asked which of the following headlines that appeared in American newspapers during the early 1970's might have affected the retail price of meat:

—Soviet Union Experiences Shortfall in Wheat Crop

—Soybean Meal Triples in Price

—Unemployment Down 5 Per Cent

—Anchovies Disappear Off Coast of Peru

—Federal Food Stamp Program Expanded

—Truckers' Strike Enters Second Week

—Social Security Payments Rise 11 Per Cent

—Midwest Cornfields Under Water

The answer, of course, is "all of the above." Each of the events mentioned had an impact on the price of meat then and now.

It's no problem to connect the price of wheat, soybeans and corn with the price of meat. All three are ingredients in livestock feed, and as the feed gets more expensive, the meat animals get more expensive to produce.

But what about social security, food stamps and unemployment? The connection here involves demand. As more people get more money they spend more on meat, economists tell us. The increase in demand can drive up the price of meat.

Combine the higher level of demand, higher production costs and higher overhead such as labor, transportation and packaging, and you get the steep climb in meat prices experienced two years ago.

Today's lower-priced beef is a result of lower cattle prices, a phenomenon which has dealt hardship to livestock men in Kentucky and elsewhere. Farm production costs, as well as meat processing costs have continued to climb, but farm prices for cattle remain low.

Consumers are enjoying the lower beef prices today, but could see supplies dwindle if cost pressure on the farmer is not relieved.

Farmers hope that consumers will react rationally if, in the near future, beef prices move upward to reflect the farmers increased cost of production.

To keep the proper perspective, in fact, it might be a good idea to clip this quiz and file it. You never know when somebody is going to feed you a bunch of bull about the price of meat.

Making The Most Of Stress

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

BLASINGAME

Stress is an unavoidable part of every life. In fact, some stress is essential. It is a matter of choosing the right kind.

According to 67-year-old Dr. Hans Selye, professor and director of the Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery at the University of Montreal, in an interview in Modern Maturity magazine, "Complete freedom from stress is death. Don't try to avoid stress — it's the very salt and spice of life. But do learn to master it and to use it."

Stress is all about us in much that we do — whether climbing stairs, walking in the hot sun or dealing with an irate neighbor. Body reactions accompany stressful behavior. Adrenalin is secreted into the blood stream, and the pulse accelerates. When the stress is removed, body functions slow. These up-and-down cycles have a stimulating effect on our system and help to keep it fit.

If stress is persistent, it can lead to over-demand and exhaustion.

Dr. Selye suggests that each of us should choose to regularly do those things which we can do successfully and which we find to be rewarding. They will be more harmonious to our stress level, giving us stimulation without exhaustion. He thinks that each of us has a stress level and that we can watch for it and avoid trying to live beyond it. Such a level can be found in the performance of pleasant, useful, creative jobs, which Dr. Selye calls "play professions."

In the interview, Dr. Selye said that he believes "Love thy neighbor as thyself" should be translated today into "Earn the neighbor's love," with "love" being used in its broadest sense — respect, compassion, gratitude, and good will. Human relations then become constructively stressful.

Q. Mrs. H.H. wants to know about the hazards of vinyl chloride in aerosol hair sprays and antiperspirants.

A. Vinyl chloride was commonly used as a propellant until studies showed a possible causal relationship between vinyl chloride and the incidence of angiosarcoma of the liver. Vinyl chloride is no longer used, and the current materials are not hazardous under normal conditions.

Q. Mrs. V. E. writes that she has been drinking milk regularly to try to make her fingernails less brittle but has not noticed much difference after several months. She asks if she should drink more milk?

A. Milk is a good food for most people but doesn't do a thing for brittle nails. Keep them trimmed back to a comfortable length so that the fleshy part of the finger tips can protect them. Also, massaging the nail frequently with an oily substance such as mineral oil often helps.

Racers Land Big Prize, Get Leffler, 6-5 Guard

By MIKE BRANDON
Lester & Times Sports Editor
A bedsheet basketball player. That's what Tom Leffler is. And what, you might ask, is a bedsheet basketball player?

FINAL RECRUIT—The sixth and final recruit of the basketball recruiting season is 6-5 guard Tom Leffler of Lemont, Ill. Leffler will be used as either a guard or a forward while at Murray State.

all of the writing. Leffler became the sixth and final recruit of the Murray State Racers last Thursday when he signed a national letter of intent. The 6-5 forward-guard from Lemont, Ill., has a list of honors that's just simply incredible.

But perhaps the greatest honor is the words of his high school coach, John Jones.

"You're not going to find a better Christian young man than Tom Leffler," Jones said.

"There's no such thing as training rules for Tom because he never needed them. If there's such a thing as a fan club at Murray State, he'll have his own by the time he's a junior."

Here is just some of the schools that sought Leffler: Indiana, Marquette, Northwestern, Temple, Villanova, Western Kentucky, Utah State, DePaul, Chicago, Loyola, Southern Illinois, Texas and Illinois State.

Last Saturday, Leffler played in the Chicago All-Stars and Suburban All-Stars game. Leffler was the only player from a Class A school chosen for the team and he also started for the Suburban All-Stars.

In 16 minutes of play, he hit two of two from the field, four of four from the line, had eight rebounds and seven assists.

"Three or four schools tried to sign him after the game," Murray State assistant coach Jim Calvin said.

"But we signed him on Thursday," Calvin added with a big smile.

According to Coach Jones, a recruiter from Marquette called Lemont High School Wednesday and wanted Leffler to come up for a visit.

Jones told the recruiter that Leffler had already signed at Murray State, upon which the recruiter replied: "How the hell did Murray State see him?"

Murray State "sees" Leffler as a big plus and a great recruiting prize.

"The statistics show you what a fine player we have," Calvin said.

"Every year, the professional scouting services overlook a couple of fantastic players and that's the case with Tommy. He's very confident to a flaw, he stonewalls it on the boards and is conditioned to hustle at 100 miles per hour forever."

"He gives you visions of the Jerry Sloan-type player. In the All-Star game this past Saturday, once he dove into the stands for the ball."

Jerry Sloan. That's quite a comparison. But... Last summer, Leffler spent four weeks working as a counselor in a basketball camp, without pay, just to be around kids.

"He rubbed elbows with some big people," Jones said.

"He met Bobby Knight (Indiana coach) and a lot of others. And once, he got to play against Jerry Sloan. Sloan was really impressed with Tommy. He had nothing but praise for the kid."

Here are just some of the honors: First Team All-Conference, First Team All-Suburban, best senior in the Joliet Area, special mention All-Chicago area, voted as one of the top 50 players in northern Illinois, First Team All-State Class A, and even more too numerous to mention.

His statistics: He shot .603 from the field his senior year, .716 from the line, averaged 23.2 points per game and 12.2 rebounds. He holds every scoring and rebounding record at Lemont.

Six times this past season, Leffler scored over 30 points. In 28 games this season, including two he sat out because of illness, he scored over 20 points on 22 occasions.

In one game this year, he hit 16 of 19 field goal attempts from the outside range and finished with 37 points. His top game was 43.

During three years as a starter, Lemont rolled up a combined record of 69-13.

As a junior, he was 6-5 and 200 pounds, a starter at tight end on the Lemont football team. He was also a member of the school's golf team.

In the Regional Tournament, as a junior, his team lost.

"After the crowd was gone, he came to me and told me he was going to start right then at dedicating the next 365 days to basketball. He gave up golf and football and said that we'd never again lose a Regional championship game," Jones said.

And after the loss to Chicago Christian in the Regional finals, Leffler began his total devotion to basketball.

This past March, the rematch came. In the finals of the Sectional Tournament, they defeated the same Chicago Christian team 55-50.

Lemont went on to the Sweet 16 or the Super Sectional as it is called in Illinois. They were defeated 51-46 by Budda Western. Lemont was ranked as high as fifth in the state during the season.

Leffler came to visit Murray last month. When he did, he loved the place. An avid fisherman, he was really excited when he learned Kentucky Lake was just a short drive down the highway.

Here is what Leffler told Murray State head coach Fred Overton as he departed the campus: "Coach, with all the guys you are recruiting and with the type of people that I've met here, we're going to go to the NCAA Tournament before long."

"Anybody that's ever met him just loves him," Jones said.

"Now, he knows where he's going to school and he's just in a super situation."

Tom Leffler, the people of Murray welcome you to the town, the university and the basketball program.

Jerry Sneva's Rookie Season At Indy Has Storybook Ending

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — If there ever was a story with a happy ending, it's the saga of Jerry Sneva's rookie driving test.

The last day of practice that rookies could complete driving tests, clearing them to compete for a starting spot in the May 25 Indianapolis, was Wednesday at 5 p.m.

The 25-year-old brother of driver Tom Sneva, who has already qualified a McLaren for a second-row start, started Wednesday with a race car only partially reassembled after Mike Hiss crashed it in practice last week.

Enter big Ed Sneva, the father of Tom and Jerry, who took a vacation to watch his sons. Big Ed strapped on a shop apron and went to work with the fellows trying to get the car ready.

"I don't like to stand around," said Ed, a former race driver. "Especially when it comes to helping one of my boys."

As the afternoon wore on, the car slowly took shape. The one-of-a-kind nose cone on the three-year-old Kingfish chassis had been destroyed in the accident. So a new one was fashioned out of sheets of aluminum and tape—not exactly the most aerodynamically refined piece of equipment.

Of the four 10-lap phases of the test around the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway oval, Jerry had completed one, at 160 miles per hour. He still had the phases at 165, 170 and 170-plus miles per hour.

As 5 p.m. rolled around, chief steward Tom Binford, understanding the frantic work going on, gave the Sneva clan an extension.

"But only to 6 p.m.," he said. "If you're not through with at least two more phases by then, we can't do anything else for you."

Finally the machine was filled with fuel, fellow driver Larry Cannon took the car out for two shakedown laps, then turned it over to Jerry.

And after a couple of very unscientific adjustments to raise the new nose cone off the ground, he was away—at 5:45 p.m.

Brother Tom joined the test crew and gave Jerry speed signals as he passed.

With no warmup, no practice and very little time ever in an Indianapolis-type car—which has no speedometer—Jerry turned out 20 steady laps at stages from 165 m.p.h. to 175 m.p.h.

The last lap was completed just as the yellow light closing the track for the day went on. He cut it so close on fuel that he ran out on the backstretch and coasted slowly back in.

Jerry was scheduled to complete the final phase, which is observed and graded by fellow drivers, Thursday.

Practice otherwise Wednesday for the May 25 race was generally quite slow, despite favorable weather. Defending champion Johnny Rutherford had the quickest lap time of the 20 cars practicing, with a clocking at more than 187 m.p.h.

Wide receiver Robin Ameen led Navy's football team last season in pass receiving with 26 catches and also in punt returns with 16.

Cincinnati Turned Down For New ABA Franchise

CINCINNATI (AP)—American Basketball Association Commissioner Tedd Munchak said there will be no ABA franchise in Cincinnati next season.

Munchak, who was to own the proposed franchise, said he decided against bringing pro basketball back to Cincinnati following a closed door ABA meeting in Louisville.

John Y. Brown, owner of the Kentucky Colonels, said he would honor his contract with Cincinnati. It calls for the Colonels to play 13 games at the new Cincinnati Coliseum, which is scheduled to open later this summer.

Brian Heekin, owner of the American Hockey League franchise scheduled to open this season, and head of the group building the 17,000-seat facility, said he was not surprised.

His group also owns 40 percent of the Kentucky franchise.

Munchak and Heekin were at odds after Heekin demanded Munchak sign a 10-year agreement to keep the proposed ABA team in the coliseum.

Munchak suggested that a Cincinnati group be formed to buy a either the San Diego or Memphis franchises.

"As far as I can tell," said Heekin, "we're the only group that might be interested in buying part of a team and of course, we couldn't do that until we sold our share of the Colonels. So we'd be right back where we started," he said.

"It would be the Munchak thing all over again."

Heekin added that he has been contacted recently by several National Basketball Association franchises. The Cincinnati Royals of the NBA moved out of the city several years ago complaining of poor attendance.

"But what the heck," said Heekin. "You've got the same problem with the NBA and they cost more."

Dick Allen Gets Big Welcome From Phillie

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Dick Allen finally learned Wednesday night why Philadelphia is called the City of Brotherly Love.

The good burghers of that Pennsylvania metropolis, who have been accused of booing funerals, welcomed Allen back to baseball with three standing ovations. And the controversial slugger came through with a single his first time up as the Phillies blanked the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 behind Steve Carlton's seven-hit pitching.

"They showed me what kind of town this could be," said Allen, who spent the first six years of his career in Philadelphia and was one of the boobies' favorite targets. "I'd like to see it stay that way, and I think it will as long as I produce."

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-4, the Houston Astros outslugged the Chicago Cubs 11-7, the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the San Diego Padres 5-4 in 11 innings, the New York Mets trimmed the San Francisco Giants 6-1 and the Montreal Expos edged the Atlanta Braves 5-4.

But baseball's eyes were on the 33-year-old Allen, who hadn't faced a major league pitcher in 248 days since his tearful "retirement" from the Chicago White Sox last September. After his first-inning single off rookie Pat Darcy, Allen fled out and grounded out before leaving in the seventh inning to rest a slightly sprained ankle. He handled seven chances cleanly at first base. The 30,908 fans at Veterans Stadium roared every time Allen exhaled. They gave him a standing ovation when the lineups were announced. They gave him another when he made all three putouts in the top of the first inning. They roared as though he had just won the seventh game of the World Series when he singled in the bottom of the first.

Carlton handed the Reds their second consecutive shut-out. Greg Luzinski singled home the only run he needed in the first inning. Larry Bowa delivered an RBI single in the sixth and the Phillies got their final two runs in the eighth on a double by Garry Maddox, singles by Luzinski and Tommy Hutton—Allen's replacement—and an infield hit by Carlton.

Cardinals 7, Dodgers 4
Ted Simmons' two-run double and Ken Reitz' two-run single highlighted a five-run rally in the third inning. Simmons' bases-loaded ground-rule smash that bounced over the left field wall brought the Cardinals from behind against Doug Rau. Reitz followed with a drive off the foot of relief pitcher Rick Rhoden, capping the uprising.

Astros 11, Cubs 7
Doug Rader slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and a three-run blast in the seventh. Tom Griffin won his first game in six decisions but was replaced in the sixth when the Cubs scored two runs, narrowing the margin to 6-5.

Pirates 5, Padres 4
Bill Robinson singled home the winning run with two out in the 11th inning off Bill Greif after Dave Parker drilled a one-out double. The Padres tied the game in the eighth on a run-scoring double by Dave Winfield and an RBI single by Willie McCovey, who also blasted his fourth homer in the fourth inning.

Mets 5, Giants 1
Rusty Staub drove in three runs with a homer and single and Dave Kingman delivered a two-run double while Jerry Koosman pitched an erratic five-hitter. Koosman got himself in trouble several times by issuing eight walks but the Giants managed to score only in the third inning on singles by Derrel Thomas and Willie Montanez and Gary Matthews' grounder. Koosman struck out eight in handing the Giants their sixth consecutive defeat.

Expos 5, Braves 4
Pepé Manguel's run-scoring single capped a three-run seventh inning rally that gave Montreal a 5-3 lead. Gary Carter doubled with one out and moved to third on Barry Foote's single. One out later, Carter scored the tying run on Jose Morales' double. Foote scored on an error by Atlanta shortstop Larvell Blanks and pinch runner Pete Mackanin scored the eventual winning run on Manguel's single.

Nine Rivals To Greet Derby Winner Saturday

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—Foolish Pleasure, the Kentucky Derby winner, and nine rivals posing a threat to his Triple Crown chances were expected to be entered today in the 100th running of the $150,000-added Preakness Stakes.

Owners of the 10 colts, who already have paid $100 nomination fees, faced a charge of $1,000 to pass the entry box and another $1,000 to start in the 1 3-16 mile classic at Pimlico Race Course on Saturday.

With two owners ready to pay another $10,000 each in supplementary entry fees, since their colts were not nominated, the race would gross a record $210,600 and the winner would get a record $158,100.

Bold Chapeau, one of three entries rated at 20-1 by Pimlico oddsmaker Earle Hart, became the first official entry Wednesday.

Fred Wyble, trainer and part-owner of Bold Chapeau, called in the entry by telephone from his home in Opelousas, La., where he has been detained because of the serious illness of his mother-in-law.

Dr. Anthony Leggio, the other major owner of Bold Chapeau, the eighth-place finisher in the Kentucky Derby, and minority owner Tom Isbell are expected to be on hand for the Preakness. If Wyble can't make it, the colt will be saddled by Stephen A. Long.

Foolish Pleasure, scheduled to face six of the 14 opponents he whipped in the Derby on May 3, has been installed a 6-5 choice to make the Preakness his 12th victory in 13 career starts.

A victory also would send him into the Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park of June 7 with a chance to become thoroughbred racing's 10th Triple Crown champion.

Flyers And Sabres Have Battle Plans Made For Final Series

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The battle plans have been drawn for tonight's opening game of the Stanley Cup finals. They are surprisingly similar for both clubs.

Stop the other team's top center.

After the Philadelphia Flyers completed their light workout Wednesday, they spoke almost unanimously about Buffalo Sabres' center Gilbert Perreault—the man they all feel has to be contained to insure a successful defense of the National Hockey League championship they won last season.

"The only guy we've got to stop before he gets out of his zone is Perreault," said Flyers' defenseman Andre Dupont.

"He's really good with that puck, so we've got to forecheck like crazy. If you hawk him all night, he's bound to panic. So we'll be out to get a piece of him every time he touches the puck."

First, they've got to catch Perreault, one of the sport's most elusive players. And if Philadelphia succeeds, they still have to contend with Rick Martin and Rene Robert, the wings on Perreault's "French Connection" line.

The trio amassed 291 points in the regular season as Martin collected 52 goals. Robert 40 and Perreault 39 to lead the league in scoring by a line. But if they have a nemesis, it lies in the Flyers, who have not lost to Buffalo in the last 13 games—exhibition and regular pitchers but on those dog-gone errors.

Murray High hurler Tony Thurmond watched as his teammates committed six miscues that enabled Marshall County to take the District championship with a 5-2 win Wednesday afternoon over the Tigers at Holland Stadium.

READY TO FIRE—Tony Thurmond of Murray High looks toward home plate and starts to go into his windup. The hard-throwing junior of the Tigers, who last week set a school record with 19 strikeouts in a win over Calloway County, fell victim to errors Wednesday and lost 5-2 to Marshall County in the District finals.

Only one of the runs off the Tiger junior hurler was earned. And the rest, well the Tigers and Thurmond would just as soon forget about them.

The game started out well for the Tigers and it lasted for four innings.

In the bottom of the first, the Tigers struck for three hits to put two tallies on the board. Lindy Suiter started the contest for the Tigers by ripping a hard single off a Larry McGregor fastball.

After one out, Lindsey Hudspeth plugged the gap in rightcenter for a double, sending in Suiter. After two were out, Tony Bayless pounded a single to left and the Tigers led 2-0.

Marshall County got its first run in the third inning. Richard Harrington struck out but the ball got away from catcher Jeff Oakley, who threw high to first base for an error. Following an error on the shortstop, McGregor aided his own cause with a single, scoring Harrington and cutting the lead in half.

Then in the fifth frame, the real damage was done. With two out and a man on first, Dale Cannon singled to center. The ball got past Lindsey Hudspeth and the tying run marched across. Another single and an error pushed across the second Marshall County run of the frame and gave the Marshals a 3-2 edge.

Marshall County used three hits and two errors to add another pair of runs in the sixth inning to wrap the game up in the win column.

Thurmond allowed seven hits to the Marshals while fanning seven and walking three. McGregor struck out three and didn't allow a pass.

The loss ends the Tiger season at 7-9 while the Marshals will carry an 8-10 record into the Regional Tournament next week at Fort Campbell.

Jacklin Says He Plans To Play Rest Of His Life In America

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tony Jacklin, a bright and breezy Briton who abandoned the U.S. pro golf tour two years ago, made his return to full-time American competition today in the first round of the $150,000 New Orleans Open.

"I'll be playing here the rest of my competitive life," said Jacklin, a 30-year-old former British and U.S. Open champion who encountered a variety of difficult, perplexing problems in his two seasons of competition in Britain and Europe.

Foremost among them—and the principal reason for his return to the United States—is the collapse of the British economy and the enormous taxes he encountered at home.

He was prompted to sell his castle in England and seek a tax shelter on the Isle of Jersey, where he is subject to only a 20 per cent tax on his income. To receive that shelter, however, he is prohibited from playing in Britain for a couple of years—including the British Open.

So he applied for, and received, full reinstatement of his playing rights on the American tour.

"I'm really very glad to be coming back," Jacklin said. And he's coming back with a different attitude. "The last two or three years that I played here before, about half my mind always was at home," he said. "I really didn't devote myself to the game here as I should have. As a result, I suffered for it."

"This time is different. I know I'm to be making my living—and will be playing here—from now on. It gives you a different perspective on things."

Jacklin, who played the American tour regularly for about five years, has been Europe's leading drawing card for several seasons. He said he plans to play about four months on his current American swing.

His return offered a highlight to the 72-hole test that began today on the 7,080-yard, par-72 Lakewood Country Club course. Among the other major standouts were defending titleholder Lee Trevino, veteran Billy Casper and young Tom Watson, a winner last week in Dallas.

Warriors End Series By Edging Bulls 83-79

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors beat the Chicago Bulls 83-79 in the decisive seventh game of the Western Conference finals.

But if we play like this against Washington, we're going to give them a battle," said Rick Barry, whose 14 points in a fourth quarter drive Wednesday night led the Warriors to an 83-79 victory over the Chicago Bulls in the decisive seventh game of the Western Conference finals.

Washington's Bullets, who dethroned the defending NBA champion Boston Celtics to win the Eastern Conference title, will host the first game of the playoff finals Sunday in Landover, Md.

The Bulls were favored over Golden State, having beaten the Warriors in three of four regular season meetings, and the Bulls led the series 3-2 going into Game 6 last Sunday on their home court.

"We had our chance in Chicago and let it slip away," Bulls' Coach Dick Motta said. "We got a second chance here but just weren't up to it."

The Warriors, who won 86-72 with Barry scoring 36 points Sunday, trailed by as many as 14 points Wednesday night as Barry made just two of his first 15 shots. Their successful catch-up drive began late in the third quarter after Coach Al Attles had brought Barry to the bench for the third time in the game.

"I don't think I've ever seen a game more symbolic of team effort than this one. We got great performances from people who hadn't been playing much," said Attles. "Then Rick got off and running in the fourth quarter, and that was the ball game," Attles concluded.

"Keith Wilkes kept us in the game," said Barry, praising the rookie forward who scored 23 points, one more than Barry's total.

Wednesday night's comeback victory was the third of the series for the Warriors, who trailed by nine before winning in Chicago Sunday and battled from 19 points back to win Game 4 here.

Chet Walker was the top Chicago scorer, with 21 points, but had only seven after the first half. Bob Love tallied 17 points, six under his average for the playoffs.

SPORTS MURRAY LEDGER & TIMES Laker Boys Take Third In Final Track Meet

Host Calloway County placed third in its own triangular track meet Wednesday afternoon.

Ronnie Olive scored three second places in the sprint races. In the 100, he was second with a 10.7 while in the 220, he ran a 23.8 for second.

Laker Girls Close Out Successful Track Year

The Calloway County girl's track team improved its season record to 9-1 by winning a triangular meet at CCHS Wednesday afternoon.

The Lakers rolled up 85½ points while Marshall County was a distant second with 36 and Crittenden County third with 30½.

Again, Felicia Pinner won three events for the Lakers.

Her win in the field events was in the long jump where she won with a 15-3½ while teammate Vickie Butterworth was second with a 13-10. Other field events found Melessa Thorne second in the discus with an 84-7, Vickie Carraway second in the high jump with a 4-7 and Sandra Duncan second in the shot with 28-6. Third places went to Marilyn McKenzie in the discus and Janet Arnold in the high jump while Kim Kemp was fourth in the shot put.

There were two personal bests in the mile-run. Lisa Carraway was second with a 6:31.2 while Terri Morris took third in 6:36.6.

In the hurdling events, Arnold was second in the 110's with an 18.9 while Karen McKinney's 19.0 earned a third. The 60-yard hurdles found McKinney second with a 10.0 while Arnold was fourth.

Three Laker relay teams won.

The 440-relay team of Butterworth, Cole, Kathy Johnson and Olive took first in 54.9. The 880-relay team consisting of the same people won with a 1:58.

In the 880-medley relay, Cole, Lawrence, Johnson and Pinner ran the legs as the Lakers won with a 2:08.9.

The mile-relay was the only relay event the Lakers failed to win. Calloway placed second with a 5:03.4. Running legs were Sandy Bibb, Sharon McKinney, Tammy Miller and Lawrence.

The triangular brings to an end the regular season for the Laker girls. They will participate in the Regional meet which will begin at 11 a. m. Saturday at Paducah Tilghman.

A FRIENDLY SKUNK
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — It was Halloween Eve at the Saratoga harness track and onlookers scented something was wrong when the pole horse conceded the right of way to a skunk leisurely pacing across the track. The horses were just coming onto the track for their warmup. While no horses were spooked in the actual running of the race, the judges ruled the skunk "out of odor."

Hughes' UFO's Were Problems For 'Tribe

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Those unidentified flying objects coming from the pitcher's mound sure baffled Boog Powell.

"I couldn't tell what he was throwing...it was some kind of a trick pitch," the Cleveland slugger said after sighting the UFOs from the right arm of Minnesota's Jim Hughes.

Whatever Hughes had up his sleeve sailed right by the Cleveland hitters Wednesday night and ignited the Twins to a 3-0 American League victory.

"Hughes is as smart as a young pitcher as I've seen in quite a while," said Minnesota Manager Frank Quilici. "He has a good assortment of pitches and the ability to change speeds, which should make him effective."

Hughes has been a shot in the right arm for Minnesota, since being given a chance to start because of the Twins' mound problems. Joe Decker and Dave Goltz, a pair of righthanders, have been sidelined for some time now due to illness and injury.

Since joining the starting rotation, the rookie has chalked up a 3-1 record, including three straight victories. Before Wednesday night's shutout, his first in the majors, Hughes had a strong, complete-game performance against Baltimore.

"I like to work fast," said Hughes, partially explaining the key to his sudden success. "I think it helps the fielders to stay ready."

In the other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Chicago White Sox 3-2; the Kansas City Royals trimmed the Detroit Tigers 4-1 and the New York Yankees beat the California Angels 4-3 in 10 innings. The game between the Texas Rangers and Milwaukee Brewers was suspended after 14 innings under the American League's 1 a.m. curfew rule with the teams tied at 2-2. It will be resumed tonight before their regularly scheduled contest in Arlington, Tex.

Hughes did a lot for Minnesota, but he didn't do it all. Rod Carew stole home for the 10th time in his career and Larry Hise and Bobby Darwin each clouted their fourth home runs of the season as Gaylor Perry, 4-5, suffered his third straight loss for the Indians.

Orlones 3, White Sox 2
Bobby Grich singled with one out in the ninth inning and Don Baylor slammed the next pitch from Chicago relief ace Terry Forster for a triple, lifting Baltimore over the White Sox.

After being shut out for six innings on three hits by Wilbur Wood, the Orioles tied the score 2-2 in the seventh. Wood issued a leadoff walk to Tommy Davis, who scored on Baylor's two-out double high off the left field wall, about a foot short of a home run. Brooks Robinson then greeted Forster, 2-3, with a game-tying single.

Royals 4, Tigers 1
Vada Pinson drove in two runs with a homer and single and also doubled twice as Kansas City beat Detroit behind Nelson Briles' five-hit pitching.

Yanks 4, Angels 3
Bobby Bonds' bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 10th inning lifted Catfish Hunter and New York over California. The victory was Hunter's fourth in his last five starts and evened his record at 4-4.

Brewers 2, Rangers 2
The marathon game between Texas and Milwaukee was suspended under the American League rule that no inning can be started after 1 a.m. locally. The start of the game was delayed about an hour and 13 minutes by rain and then it took more than 3½ hours to play.

Milwaukee took a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning off Texas southpaw Clyde Wright on Derrrell Porter's two-run single. The Rangers tied it in the sixth. Willie Davis looped a double to left and Jeff Burroughs crashed another double off the right field wall, scoring Davis. Burroughs went to third on a groundout and scored on Ed Sprague's wild pitch.

Jim Barr of the San Francisco Giants had the best control of any National League pitcher in 1974. He walked only 1.76 men per nine innings for 186 innings.

Environmental Quality Board Seeks Nuclear Waste Answers

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The Environmental Quality Commission wants to know more about possible radiation leaks at Maxey Flats in Fleming County.

Suspicion that a leak exists on the nuclear waste disposal site run by Nuclear Engineering Co. on land leased by the state since 1963 led the citizens advisory commission to the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to begin questioning government officials at its last meeting.

The commission determined that responsibility for the site is divided among several state and federal agencies, including the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The commission voted to ask Gov. Julian Carroll for assistance in acquiring the necessary personnel to determine the situation at Maxey Flats.

Answering a commission request, John Roberts, director of the state division of reclamation, delineated the provisions of proposed strip mine reclamation legislation and compared them to Kentucky requirements. Many of the federal requirements are not included in the state's laws or regulations.

Both new and existing strip mines must comply with eight major provisions of the federal law. New mines must comply immediately, existing ones within 135 days after the law's effective date. They must advertise, demonstrate an equal or higher land use, develop hydrologic consequences or reclamation, grade the land to approximate original contours, restore topsoil to the area, meet federal vegetation standards, construct sediment control structures under federal guidelines and meet rigid requirements on mining land steeper than 20 degrees.

Roberts said the federal provisions will necessitate an enormous amount of paperwork for both the mine operators and the regulatory agencies. Competition for engineers, hydrologists, geologists and other experts needed to meet the federal law also may put a strain on both the operators and the agencies.

In other action, the commission adopted recommendations of its Noise Advisory Committee, which call for adequate funds to allow the noise control agency to collect data, conduct investigations, train its staff and hire consultants.

The next meeting of the Environmental Quality Commission will be May 21, in Frankfort.

John Denton, Frankfort, seated left, conducted a workshop on "Services to the Aged, Blind, and Disabled" Monday and Tuesday. On the right, seated, is Dorothy Nanny, team leader, Marshall-Calloway County. Standing are Kate Henton and Bonnie Ashby, social workers in Marshall and Calloway Counties respectively.

Workshop Held On Services To Disabled

A workshop on "Services to the Aged, Blind, and Disabled" was conducted in Mayfield on May 12 and 13 for the staff of the Bureau for Social Services in the Purchase District.

Shirley Goins and Estelene Jenkins, health care specialists, and John Denton, family services specialist from the Bureau in Frankfort, conducted the two-day workshop. Roy White, regional BSS family services specialist and Frances Wilson, Western State Hospital BSS social worker, were also leaders in the workshop.

Attending the workshop from Calloway County were Dorothy Nanny, team leader and Bonnie Ashby, social worker.

The Bureau for Social Services is responsible for the delivery of a wide range of social services to the aged, blind and disabled individual through local BSS staff or through cooperative agreements with private-local agencies.

Emphasized at the workshop were services to ensure the maximum level of physical, emotional, and mental health of the individual. These services included information and referral to meet the needs of health, finances, housing and recreation; coordination and follow-up referrals to community resources; homemaker services to assist in areas of nutrition, budgeting, marketing and household chores; and transportation to enable the individual to utilize available resources.

Stressed by the Bureau for Social Services is utilization of all support services to enable the individual to remain in a family surrounding and to remain as independent as possible.

Participants at the workshop also discussed the licensing procedure and regulations for alternate care facilities, as well as the responsibility of the BSS staff in working with the operators of these facilities and the families of the individual. The object of this program is to help the individual who cannot return home make an appropriate adjustment and to insure that adequate care is being provided.

More information concerning referrals for services to aged, blind and disabled persons may be obtained by contacting the local Bureau for Social Services office. The Calloway County BSS office is located at 201 South Sixth Street.

Snowmakers May Have To Be Taken To Northern Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — It might seem like carrying coals to Newcastle but builders of a proposed natural gas pipeline above the Arctic Circle may have to bring snowmaking machines to northern Alaska.

The snow would be used to build roads which would protect the tundra underneath. The tundra is the delicate arctic soil that quickly erodes once its surface is broken.

The environmental director of the Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. on Tuesday expressed concern that sufficient snow might not protect the ground in late autumn when construction of the pipeline would begin.

The environmental expert, Russell A. Hemstock, said at a Federal Power Commission hearing that the area's climate is dry and as little as 30 inches of snow falls there each year despite its northern location.

He was testifying on behalf of an Alaskan Arctic application to build the pipeline from Prudhoe Bay on Alaska's North Slope, through Canada's Northwest Territories and south into the upper Midwestern United States.

Hemstock explained that the tundra in Northern Alaska is extremely delicate and that heavy construction equipment driving over it would quickly cause permanent damage, possibly extending to the permafrost 12 to 18 inches below the surface.

He said the pipeline builders would construct roads of packed snow, which would absorb the weight of the construction machines, some as heavy as 300 tons, and would thus protect the vegetation.

But, he said, if enough snow is not available when construction begins at the start of the Alaskan winter, snow would be manufactured using machines similar to those used on ski slopes.

Hemstock later told reporters that with an adequate early snowfall and the use of snow fences to collect drifting snow the machines would not be needed.

Builders of the Alaskan oil pipeline coped with tundra erosion by using roads made of thick gravel piled on the tundra.

ORAL HISTORY WORKSHOP — Dr. James Hammack, director of the Forrest C. Pogue Oral History Institute at Murray State University, presides during a session of the Mississippi Valley Oral History Workshop held on the campus last weekend. Energy Ant To Help Teach Conservation

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Who is that friendly little fellow, smiling out from a new government publication? Can it be that Reddy Kilowatt has survived the energy crisis? Why no, it's Energy Ant!

Energy Ant clearly has emerged from the energy crisis as the new hero. While Reddy Kilowatt used to bounce around on television encouraging people to conserve cheap electricity until electricity wasn't cheap any more, Energy Ant's role is to save electricity.

"This little friend has been created by the Federal Energy Administration to tell kids about energy and how to use it wisely," says a new Energy Ant coloring and game book for children.

Energy Ant is full of energy history, riddles and games to encourage children to save energy. For example, there is a maze to help Energy Ant through, so he can turn off a light.

There also is a game called "Trip to the Moon" that penalizes the player who lands on a square that says the door was

East Honor Roll Released

The honor roll for the fifth grading period at East Elementary school has been released and is as follows:

6th Grade—Debbie Hooks, Sharon Snyder, Leslie Atkins, Candy Maddox, Tammy Davis, Laura Garland, Kelly King, Michael Jackson, Kim Weatherford, Debbie Ferguson, Patti Ross, Lori Hale, Kathy Bynum, Aleah Lamb, Lisa Garland, Debbie Stubblefield.

7th Grade—Rose Herndon, Anita Underhill, Jennifer Williams, Jamie Barnett, Townya West, Peggy Sales, Mary Wagoner.

8th Grade—Renee Overbey, Mary Denny, Debbie Smith, Kim Johnson, Rose Ross.

left open but rewards the player for landing on squares that say the television set was turned off or that the child walked to school.

The child with a pair of scissors may also cut out a deck of cards that take up six pages of the 27-page book. Among the cards is a mean-looking Evil Prince who drives fast, and an equally unattractive Old Queen, who wastes hot water. Peter Keay, acting director of FEA communications and public affairs, said the ant was picked as the energy hero because the "ant is a unique symbol of an industrious creature who really uses energy wisely."

Preparation of the Energy Ant book was done by the FEA staff, especially by cartoonist Tony Ranfone, who Keay said formerly was a combat cartoonist in Vietnam.

The FEA has printed 10,000 copies of the coloring and game book for distribution to selected schools around the nation on a test basis. It also can be purchased for $1.40 from the Government Printing Office in Washington.

Tellers' Institute Slated At University

A one-day Commercial Bank Tellers Institute scheduled at Murray State University Saturday, May 17, will include specialists leading discussions on a variety of topics of interest to bank personnel.

To begin at 9 a. m. in Room 208 of Faculty Hall the morning session will feature John B. Manus, Louisville branch manager of Fidelity Deposit Company of Maryland, who will talk about extortion, and Ms. Bettie Pendley of the Commerce Union Bank of Nashville, who will address herself to money handling and proper check handling procedures.

Afternoon sessions will include a discussion of image by Mrs. Nancy Grove, fashion merchandising instructor at Draughon's Business College in Paducah, and James E. Hathaway, assistant vice-president and security officer of the Citizens Fidelity Bank and Trust Company of Louisville, who will deal with security procedures.

Activities during the institute will also include a luncheon in the ballroom of the Waterfield Student Union Building and a film during both morning and afternoon sessions.

Dr. John Lindauer, dean of the College of Business and Public Affairs at Murray State, will welcome participants to the campus.

The institute is co-sponsored by the Department of Economics at Murray State, the Western Kentucky Chapter of the Bank Administration Institute, and Group One of the Kentucky Bankers Association.

Dr. Gilbert L. Mathis, professor of economics at Murray State and coordinator of the institute, said the $5 registration fee covers the cost of the luncheon. He urged those who are interested in attending to register in advance by sending the fee to:

Dr. Gilbert L. Mathis, Department of Economics, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071, or Mrs. Lois Yarbrough, Secretary, Bank Administration Institute, Liberty Savings Bank, Mayfield, Ky., 42066.

Lucille Arnold, director of the Murray Headstart program, fifth from left, was elected secretary of the Kentucky Headstart Association at the quarterly meeting held April 23-25 at the Ramada Inn, Louisville. The association is made up of Kentucky Headstart Programs and Parents of Headstart Children. Mrs. Arnold will assume her new duties in July. Others elected are, left to right, Bob Gardner, Central, president, Cleo Lowery, Leitchfield, first vice-president, Frona Tackett, Pike County, second vice-president, Wayne Graves, Scottsville, third vice-president, Clyde Cropper, Trimble County, treasurer, and Jo An Swaenepoel, Blue Grass, reporter.

Intelligence Network Disclosure Draws Both Criticism And Praise

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Disclosure of activities of a nationwide police intelligence network caught some city officials by surprise, prompted calls for investigations and also drew criticism and praise from law enforcement officials.

A Cook County, Ill., prosecutor said Wednesday he planned to investigate what role the Law Enforcement Intelligence Unit may have played in alleged surveillance of citizens by the Chicago police.

Dallas, Tex., city officials said they had never heard of LEIU even though the Dallas police department is among its members. They said they planned to investigate the unit's activities.

An Atlanta, Ga., police intelligence officer said that city's membership in LEIU was suspended because of its stand against "political snooping."

The Associated Press questioned city officials and police in many of the more than 200 communities in the United States where LEIU has members. With $1.3 million in federal funds, the organization has established the Interstate Organized Crime Index containing more than 18,000 names that LEIU officials say are linked to organized crime.

Supporters of LEIU said it enables police intelligence officials to keep track of the activities of racketeers identified as members of criminal syndicates.

But Houston, Tex., police officials said they left LEIU after getting requests for personal data about persons without known ties to crime.

And it was learned that a former police agent has told Senate investigators he spied on private citizens while operating undercover with LEIU sponsorship.

The former agent was identified as Douglas Durham of Des Moines, Iowa, who told a news conference in March that he had been an FBI informant while working as security chief for the American Indian Movement (AIM).

Durham said he passed information to the FBI during the 1973 takeover by AIM of Wounded Knee, S.D. He said he also gave the FBI reports of conferences between AIM leaders and their lawyers when they were on trial for their role in the siege.

The charges against the Indians were dismissed.

Durham, a former Marine, said that before taking the FBI assignment he had worked as an undercover agent for LEIU. He worked out of the Des Moines police department but had at least one assignment that took him to Lincoln, Neb., with a fake identity and false criminal record.

He said he was involved in spying on private citizens not connected with criminal activity and that targets of surveillance included lawyers for the American Civil Liberties Union.

Many police officials said they were unaware of any LEIU activities resembling those described by Houston police or Durham.

Capt. Herbert McCoy of the Kansas City, Mo., Police Department said, "We collect and provide information on individuals who are in the upper echelons of crime ... Because of their mobility, these people can live in one city and never commit a crime there, but travel to other cities and commit crimes."

Day Care Regulations Draw Fire From Larger Operators

By WILLIAM BRADFORD

Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) —

Faced with continued objections from larger operators, a state agency has drawn temporarily seven proposed regulations on day care centers for young children.

The objections were voiced again at a meeting of the legislature's administrative regulation review subcommittee, which was deciding whether the regulations were in accordance with state law.

Representatives of large day care centers operating as separate facilities were the only persons opposing the regulations. Many of them made the same complaints at a previous Human Resources Department hearing on the regulations.

They said Wednesday they should not have to have the same staff-child ratio as did a facility run in a private home because they had special facilities and formalized programs. They also objected to a proposal to raise from six to 12 the number of children home centers could have.

Those spokesmen further said the regulations would drive most facilities of their type out of business.

They said they would have to raise their rates to the point that many working parents could no longer afford them. The result, they said, would be to force parents to quit work or use "underground" facilities.

William Hubbard, of the Human Resources Department, later asked to withdraw the regulations so the agency could make sure all the previously expressed objections were answered properly. A 1974 state law requires an agency to respond to all objections raised at a hearing and say why any is rejected, something some speakers said was not done in this case.

Regulations which the subcommittee rejected, returning to various state agencies for reconsideration, included ones which would:

—Exempt from the state sales tax horses sold for breeding purposes. The subcommittee said the statutory exemption from the sales tax for livestock applied only to animals sold for human consumption and thus would not include horses.

—Set a $100 fee for annual renewal of a master plumber's license. The subcommittee said that fee was unreasonable since state law sets only a $25 fee for the first time such a license is issued.

—Prohibit barbershops from advertising their prices and another which would set out certain conduct that must be followed by students at barbering schools. The subcommittee said there was no statutory authority for either of the regulations.

—Prohibit any new barbering school from opening in a city having a population of less than 40,000. The subcommittee there was no statutory authority for the population limit.

—Require anyone who failed a test for apprentice barbers to have at least 120 hours more instruction before taking the test again. It was likewise rejected for exceeding statutory authority.

—Require an out-of-state ophthalmic dispenser to pay $50 to get a license to practice in Kentucky. The subcommittee said state law sets out a $25 fee without distinction between in-state and out-of-state applicants.

—Require anyone to be 21 before getting an ophthalmic dispenser's license. State law sets an age limit of 18 for reaching adult status, the subcommittee said.

—Prohibit anyone from carrying a deadly weapon on the State Fairgrounds and Exhibition Center property in Louisville. The subcommittee said the Constitution gives anyone the right to bear arms but noted the State Fair Board could perhaps achieve its goal by refusing admission to anyone carrying deadly weapons.

The subcommittee accepted and ordered filed without comment Insurance Department regulations implementing the no-fault auto insurance law enacted in 1974.

Hollenbach Goes Door-To-Door In Louisville Campaign Drive

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach took his gubernatorial campaign door-to-door in Louisville Wednesday, scribbling personal messages on campaign literature he left in mailboxes where he found no-one home.

As he waited for one door to open he asked an aide to check precinct registration lists and give him the first name of the lady of the house and when his knock was answered, Hollenbach was ready.

"Nancy?" he asked, flashing a big grin as Mrs. Willard A. Irving II answered the door.

"Are you Todd?" Mrs. Irving asked, recognizing the candidate, smiling back and offering her hand.

They chatted for a while, she accepted a brochure on his candidacy and Hollenbach headed for the next Democratic household as indicated by the precinct lists.

Mrs. John Conway greeted Hollenbach with a breathless: "Oh, I'm overwhelmed!"

When Mrs. John Kennedy answered her door, Hollenbach commented on her husband's famous name. She replied quietly that her husband wasn't home.

Commenting on the personal appeal, handshake technique of campaigning, Hollenbach said, "All I know is that it is the way I campaigned when I won twice before (in the county judge's contest), and it works."

Combined Effort Necessary To Curb School Discipline Problems

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state Board of Education was told Wednesday by guidance counselors that disciplinary problems in the state's schools can only be curbed through the combined efforts of teachers, counselors, school administrators and parents.

The board, which had invited the counselors to give their views on school discipline, heard that respect for authority in schools has declined.

"A lot of disruptive kids could care less about punishment," said Bill Arnold, a Covington Holmes Junior High School counselor.

Pointing out that expulsion has little effect on many disruptive pupils, James Watkins, a Louisville Male High counselor, said "That just puts them back out on the streets where many of them want to be anyhow."

Watkins said expulsion or suspension should be used sparingly.

There was general agreement from the counselors that respect for authority and property is basically a parental responsibility.

"Our role is not as disciplinarians ... but in the absence of parental guidance, I think we have the responsibility of giving a child a foundation of self-respect and a knowledge of self-control," Bowling Green Elementary School counselor Pat Guthrie said.

Dr. Roy Woodward of Owensboro suggested the use of "peer counselors," where certain students would act as counselors for other students.

He said some disciplinary and dropout problems might be curtailed by the "peer" method.

Measure Would Decriminalize Marijuana Possession, Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — In a state where alcoholism is the No. 1 health problem, the Alaska legislature is on the verge of liberalizing marijuana laws to deal with what one lawmaker calls "the world, as it really exists."

The house voted 21 to 17 Tuesday to remove criminal penalties against adults who possess any amount of marijuana for personal use in their own homes. In place of maximum penalties of $1,000 and a year in jail for simple possession, a $100 civil fine would be imposed.

If approved and signed by Gov. Jay Hammond, the legislation would make Alaska the second state to "decriminalize" possession of marijuana. Oregon adopted a similar law in 1973.

Details of the pending legislation have not been worked out, and a constitutional challenge to Alaska's marijuana laws may change the eventual outcome.

"The measure does, however, attempt to deal with the world as it really exists," said Terry Miller, the bill's main sponsor and former senate president. Under various bills passed by both houses of the legislature, the small-time user of marijuana could simply pay his fine by mail if arrested. Most legislators believe a one-ounce limit may be placed on possession of marijuana in public places.

"Without question there has been a moderately high level of acceptance of marijuana among an important segment of our society," Miller said.

Possession of marijuana was reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor by the legislature five years ago. Still, more than 50 per cent of the drug arrests in Alaska each year are for marijuana possession or sale.

Alaska officials said 1,500 persons were arrested for marijuana possession or sale last year. Four persons were arrested for possession of heroin.

Vacation Ends — Husband Killed

JONESBORO, Ga. (AP) — Susan Jenkins and her husband, David, of Lexington, Ky., were to have been vacationing today. But a minor traffic mishap here led to a roadside argument and his stabbing death, police said.

"It's incredible," Mrs. Jenkins said Wednesday, soon after the death of Jenkins, 24. "How somebody could chop up a stranger in cold blood like that ... I just can't fathom it," the slender young woman said as she sat in the Clayton County police station.

Her husband was killed shortly before dawn Wednesday on Interstate 75 south of Atlanta. Hours after the slaying, a Henry County father surrendered his son to police. Everett Miller, 22, was charged with murder, according to Detective R. S. Bedingfield.

Miller's father, C. T. Miller, called police to the home of his son after hearing a news account of the stabbing and finding his son's pickup truck bloodstained, officers said.

Asst. Police Chief Ronnie Thornton quoted the younger Miller as saying Jenkins pointed out damage on the side of his car and demanded, "What were you trying to do, run me off the road?"

He said Miller told officers that Jenkins knocked him down and was beating him when he managed to reach his pocket knife.

He said that after being stabbed, Jenkins released him and said, "You've cut me."

Mrs. Jenkins said she and her husband of two years left

Lexington Tuesday on a trip to Key West, where they planned to spend a week with her grandparents. After spending the night in Atlanta, they set out for Florida shortly before 5 a.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Jenkins said she was curled up in the back seat of the car, trying to get some sleep, when she heard her husband honk his horn and mutter, "What's that guy trying to do?"

She said she looked up and saw a black pickup truck swipe the car. The two vehicles pulled over to the emergency lane and Mrs. Jenkins said she told her husband got to get out of the car.

"I was afraid it was a red-neck trying to run us off the road and I thought he might do some harm to my husband," she said.

Jenkins and the man from the pickup truck talked calmly, then walked to the truck, about 80 feet up the road, Mrs. Jenkins said.

Bedingfield said Mrs. Jenkins said she was unable to see the incident because only the parking lights of her car were on. Mrs. Jenkins said she soon saw the truck speeding away and "there was my husband limping toward me."

He couldn't speak because his throat was slashed. "He died within three or four minutes," Mrs. Jenkins said.

Affection Training Working Well For Animals In Small Zoo

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A Des Moines Zoo attendant slipped on the ice and his arm went through the bars of a tiger cage.

The cat pounced and the man shouted the command: "No bite." The tiger let loose.

Another time, a cargo attendant opened a hatch on a commercial airplane at the Des Moines airport and found himself facing another zoo inhabitant, an uncaged jaguar which had been on television in Chicago.

The attendant slammed the hatch and summoned zoo director Bob Elgin.

"I went in there after her and she was just delighted to see me," Elgin says. Elgin put a leash on the jaguar, then "walked her into the administration building where she settled down in a comfortable corner to wait for the zoo's station wagon."

Those two instances of no injury were accomplished through what Elgin calls "affection training" — love and patience rather than whip and pistol.

"We're the only zoo in the country that affection trains all of its animals," he says. This includes birds of prey, predator animals and the big cat family.

The animals can be affection trained, Elgin says, "because we're not a large zoo. We can give the animals the individual attention they need. Our basic philosophy is that animals are human, too."

"The cats are not declawed, and they have all their essential dental equipment," says Elgin, 54.

"Affection training takes a great deal longer than hand-raising them. It takes some insights into animal behavior. For example, the cats are taught not to bite hard, so they aren't frustrated if they aren't allowed to bite at all. They are taught never to use their claws aggressively."

"To get an utterly trustworthy cat takes six or seven months of intensive training. We take them into the home and they are part of the family, but this is done under carefully-controlled conditions."

Elgin has had his problems. In 1973 a chimpanzee became frenzied when it was placed in a temporary cage next to a leopard. The chimp bit off three of Elgin's fingers.

In 1969 Elgin was bitten by a cobra. "I very nearly died ... but I was given blood serum which contained antibodies to counteract the venom."

"The usual lethal dose is 40 or 50 milligrams. I was given 700 milligrams of serum — enough to fend off 14 cobra bites."

A home. Buy now or wait?

Is this the right time to buy a home? The only person who can answer this is you, the individual home buyer who knows his or her own needs and resources.

For many reasons people have postponed home purchases even though they need a home now and can afford one. Through our involvement in home loans and housing right here in our community, we consider ourselves experts in these areas, and we'd like to clear up some of the questions about today's housing market.

In contemplating a home purchase, you should focus on your own housing needs and ability to finance them. This will serve you better than trying to guess whether home prices are going up or down, or what the future level of mortgage interest rates will be. New predictions about economic trends appear every day—but no one can accurately predict the future.

One thing that is certain, mortgage money is more readily available than in 1974. Also, the supply of housing is becoming more plentiful.

The fact is that owning your home is still one of the best investments you can make, not to mention all the other benefits and satisfactions that go along with homeownership.

We have helped make this a community of homeowners, and if you are considering buying a house, we'd like to help you. You'll find us a worthwhile place to go for information about mortgage financing.

Ford Rejection Called Heartless By New York Governor And Mayor

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Hugh L. Carey and Mayor Abraham D. Beame say President Ford's rejection of their plea for financial help for New York City was heartless and arrogant, and they blame him in part for the city's financial crisis.

Ford refused their request for a 90-day federally guaranteed loan in a letter Wednesday, saying, "We must stop promising more and more services without knowing how we will cover their cost."

The two Democratic officeholders went to the White House Tuesday in hopes of a federal solution to the city's increasingly pressing problem of how to meet $1.5 billion in obligations through June 30.

At a hastily convened news conference after a dinner of the Brooklyn Democratic organization, Carey said he was calling a meeting in Albany today "so we can calmly view the prospects ahead for the city."

Speaking at the same conference at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, a grave and angered Beame declared:

"The Ford recession and the Ford inflation is crippling our city and our nation. The Ford answer tonight to New York problems — created not by the sins of its people, but by national policy — is to advise us to cripple our vital services. I want to emphasize the city did not ask for cash from the government... Instead of help, we got a lecture, a lecture which sounded more political than practical."

Asked whether the denial was politically motivated, Carey said he would not speak for the President. But pressed, the governor said some observations made at Tuesday's meeting were political and heartless. He added:

"Some of the ideas they had, what the city might do, would have turned the city into literally a place of bloodshed."

Carey said there had been suggestions to increase the transit fare, close neighborhood health-care centers and shut facilities for the elderly. To such measures, he said, "the people react."

And at the dinner attended by 2,500 persons, he had demanded:

"Have they no heart? Have they no understanding of our problem? Must the city riot? Must the city burn?"

In his letter to Beame, Ford said the federal guarantee "would provide no real solution but would merely postpone coming to grips with the problem."

Part of the money the city wants is to repay the state $400 million for emergency payments advanced in April. The balance is needed for other debts and payrolls.

Juvenile crime rises in London

SCOTLAND YARD — Juvenile crime in London rose by 15 per cent in 1974 with 32,000 children between the ages of 10 and 16 being detained by police for offenses ranging from theft and larceny to muggings, robbery and burglaries.

Of the 32,000, about 4,500 formed a "hard core" of young criminals. About 1,000 children under 10 also came into the hands of police.

U. S. Beginning To Pull Out Of Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government apologized today for the detention of three Americans by a student mob in Savannakhet, but the U.S. Embassy is reducing its staff because of growing anti-Americanism and spreading Communist domination of the country.

Deputy Information Minister Ouday Souvannavong told a news conference the government sent a delegation to the Mekong river town 230 miles southeast of Vientiane to negotiate the release of the Americans.

Student mobs in both Savannakhet and Luang Prabang, the royal capital 200 miles north of Vientiane, invaded the local headquarters of the U.S. Agency for International Development Wednesday, ransacked them and looted their rice stores.

The four Americans stationed at the Luang Prabang headquarters were believed safe.

But three of the 15 Americans in Savannakhet were reported under "house arrest" in their homes after spending Wednesday in the provincial governor's house.

The Embassy said incomplete radio messages indicated the three were unharmed.

"The government is very sorry about the incident," Ouday said.

The Embassy said the three Americans were Sanford Y. Stone, 58, of Cleveland, Ohio; P. Ster, 28, Columbus, Ind., economic affairs officer, and Charles R. Percy, 63, Salem, W. Va., a property officer.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Christian A. Chapman lodged a strong verbal protest with the Lao government Wednesday. Last Friday a student mob stoned the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said there are no plans to close the Embassy, but its staff is being reduced, and all American officials stationed in the provinces have been called to Vientiane. He added that plans for the evacuation of all staff members have been brought up to date since the Communist Pathet Lao began to take over.

The State Department said there are nearly 1,000 Americans in Laos, including 320 attached to the embassy, 150 not connected with the embassy and 500 dependents. An embassy spokesman said reduction of the staff has been going on for some time and would now possibly be speeded up.

Jobs Bill Now On Its Way To Senate With Veto Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 5.3 billion bill designed by its Democratic sponsors to fund job-producing projects is on its way to the Senate, with a Senate-House dispute still to be resolved and with a veto threatened by President Ford.

The House passed the big money bill, claimed by its backers to be worth 900,000 jobs, by 293-107 vote Wednesday night. The measure is a compromise between versions passed earlier by the two chambers.

However, one item inserted by the Senate — $700 million for railroad improvements — remained in dispute. The House voted to send that back to the Senate without agreement.

It turned down a last-minute proposal for a scaled-down $200 million item.

The bill includes funds for public service jobs in state and local governments and appropriations and authority to guarantee loans for a wide variety of public works projects and programs of the Bureau of Reclamation, Corps of Engineers, Agriculture Department and other agencies and funds to speed up lending by the Small Business Administration.

One controversial item in the House-passed version had provided for purchase of 121,000 automobiles and other vehicles by government agencies. This was scaled down to 21,000.

The bill provides contract authority that would lead to actual spending later. Estimates were that much of the spending would come in the year beginning July 1.

Republican Whip Robert H. Michel of Illinois, saying Ford would be urged to veto the measure, contended it broke the target budget the House and Senate had adopted only a few hours earlier.

That budget guideline resolution envisaged a deficit of $68.8 billion, $8.8 billion more than Ford's proposed ceiling.

Laitin said no accurate report on casualties could be given until muster had been completed later in the day.

"When we finish the muster, then we will be in a position to determine the casualties," he said.

Laitin said he did not know what the Cambodian loss was.

He said the first rescue helicopter landed on the island after dark.

"Apparently the remaining security guard forces were evacuated by helicopter," he said.

Meanwhile, President Ford formally reported to Congress that Cambodia's seizure of the ship, the Mayaguez, was an "illegal and dangerous act" in clear violation of international law and that his authority for using military force to recover it was his constitutional power as commander-in-chief of U.S. armed forces.

Speaker Carl Albert said the two-page report was delivered to Congress at 2:30 a.m. today.

The President's report contained an outline of the Marine landing on Koh Tang, recapture of the ship and bombing on the Cambodian mainland.

It gave no information on casualties.

Ford said U.S. air strikes at the military airfield at Ream "and other military targets in the area of Kompong Som" were conducted to prevent Cambodian forces from sending reinforcements from the mainland against the Marines who had landed on Koh Tang to recapture the ship.

Albert said he believed Ford's use of military force under his authority as commander-in-chief was legal.

"There wasn't any other way to get them," Albert said.

Shortly before word came of the Marines' evacuation, two carriers and a half dozen other U.S. warships were reported steaming toward the tiny island off Cambodia where the Marines had been held under enemy fire.

Carroll Says Voters Turned Off By Watergate Scandals

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll says he's campaigning so hard to keep his office because people have been turned off politics by the Watergate scandals.

"It's time somebody stood up, told them the truth, and was honest with them," Carroll told about 1,000 supporters at a rally in the Latonia clubhouse Wednesday night.

"There are honest people in government—politicians are not all bad," Carroll said, adding that to elect good public officials "we must have good people involved in politics (as voters)."

The governor urged his supporters not to be apathetic on May 27, saying "while this election is in good shape, we've still got to count them (the votes)."

Carroll said that because he has served as governor since Wendell Ford went to the U.S. Senate in January, the voters have a unique opportunity to elect a governor who has proven himself, not a candidate who makes "pie-in-the-sky promises."

"You have a choice between a known factor and an unknown factor," Carroll said.

He criticized his opponent, Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach, for isolating himself from his constituents, saying that he (Carroll) has campaigned across the state and has "probably been in Louisville more than some of the officeholders there."

Carroll said he would bring maturity, experience and concern for the people of Kentucky to the office of governor.

"I know more about the office of governor than any other candidate running at this time," he said.

Carroll was scheduled to return today to Lexington, where he had campaigned Monday night. On Wednesday he toured Northeastern Kentucky by helicopter, visiting the communities of Olive Hill, Greenup, Vanceburg and Maysville.

At Maysville, he was greeted by about 100 persons carrying signs asking for more aid to education. Carroll told them "elementary and secondary education is my No. 1 priority."

He said he plans to use federal revenue-sharing funds to bring Kentucky's educational level up to par. Kentucky now ranks 49th among the states in expenditures on elementary and secondary education.

"I am ashamed that Kentucky ranks 49th, and we've got to do something about it," Carroll said, to applause from the group.

"I will appropriate (revenue sharing funds) for (educational) programs rather than buildings," he said.

Car Sales Down 21 Per Cent From Last May, Makers Report

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto-makers report car sales in early May fell 21 per cent from a year ago to the lowest level for the period in 17 years.

The four major U.S. firms reported Wednesday that sales for the May 1-10 period declined from the same period a year ago. Two of them said sales also were off from early April.

Sales of imports, which captured a record 21 per cent of the U.S. car market in the first four months of the year, are reported only at the end of each month.

"We're no longer looking for a rebound," conceded one company analyst who had predicted a spring upturn first for April, and later for May.

"There has been a grinding, almost grudging increase in sales over the past months, and the May figures are a normal continuation of that pattern in this slow year," he added. "But monthly sales will not run ahead of last year until sometime this fall."

While sales remain down,

Chrysler Comptroller Roger Helder said prices on new cars this fall will be going up about 5 per cent — $250 above current models.

U.S. car sales for the period were 162,046, compared with a depressed 204,505 last year, and were down seven-tenths of a per cent from 163,190 in the first 10 days of April.

The latest daily selling rate of 18,005 was the lowest for an early May since the recession of 1958, when the rate was 13,705.

For the year to date, sales of 2,201,472 are off 18 per cent from 2,678,196 last year and are running at a 14-year low.

Auto analysts say early May sales normally run at the same pace as in early April. The latest results failed to signal the significant spring upturn auto executives have been looking for to end the industry's 19-month slump, the worst since World War II.

Chrysler sales of 23,757 in the period were down from 32,367 last year, but up 20 per cent from early April. Chrysler credited the increase from last month to $200 cash rebates on compacts and light vans.

AMC sales were 8,369, down from 9,336 last year and off 2 per cent from early April. Ford car sales were 41,555, down from 56,462 a year ago and off 15 per cent from early April.

GM sales of 88,365 were off from 106,340 last year, but were up 3 per cent from early April, giving the firm its best daily selling rate for the first 10 days of a month since October.

For the year to date, Chrysler sales are off 31 per cent, AMC is down 25 per cent, Ford is off 22 per cent and GM is down 10 per cent.

Marine Lance Corporal Michael L. Stom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Stom of 223 S. 11th St., Murray, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the 2d Marine Division, at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N. C.

THE PROBLEM WITH GUN CONTROL LAWS

What a wonderful thing it would be if we could outlaw firearms and put an end to crime. But, alas, such is not the case! Such legislation would only serve to disarm law-abiding citizens because criminals will always find weapons.

It is the fundamental right under our constitution for every citizen to bear arms in defense of his home, life, and family.

Hunting, traditionally, is one of America's greatest sports, and I would oppose legislation to curb the sale of pistols, rifles and shotguns.

In the same vein, I will oppose the proposal to take funds from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses from the Fish and Wildlife Commission and transfer them to the state's general fund. The Fish and Wildlife Commission grosses more than $6 million annually and is one of the few state branches which is self-supporting.
